

Milestones in Headquarters' Journey

1982 – To conduct state business, TSO began renting a two-room apartment in a Texas Woman's University residence hall in Denton.

2004 – The TWU apartment became inadequate. TSO was a large and growing state organization that had the unique distinction of being the founding state organization of an international Society. TSO needed more office space, more storage and display space for TSO historical treasures, and more room for state and chapter meetings and ceremonies. At state convention in Austin, the TSO president appointed a special committee to investigate options for obtaining more appropriate state facilities.

2005 – At state convention in Dallas, members voted to purchase a modern office building in Dallas.

2006 – On March 10, TSO took a major step forward as a professional organization when TSO purchased an office suite in Dallas. On April 1, TSO held a ribbon cutting ceremony. On October 15, TSO hosted an open house to dedicate our new building.

2007 – At state convention in Amarillo, members approved a Headquarters Committee to establish policies for TSO HQ and to oversee the building's maintenance.

2009 — The Headquarters Committee was charged with raising funds to repay the scholarship fund for the monies borrowed to purchase the headquarters building. They became quite successful at raising these funds for TSO, a 501(c)(6) nonprofit organization; however, they recognized the limitations mandated by IRS regulations and the advantages of foundations under 501(c)(3) regulations. One goal was to have a foundation with nonprofit status.

2011 — ASTEF is established as a 501(c)(3) foundation. Being a nonprofit foundation would allow all donations made to the foundation by members to be tax deductible. TSO and ASTEF enter into a symbiotic relationship. They support each other in their goals, and the headquarters staff performs daily and annual tasks to operate both organizations.
